

GUEST ACCUSES HOTEL CASHIER

Asserts $1,753 Was Taken from a Coat He Had Left
In His Room.

William Quick, cashier of the Glen Island Hotel, No. 115 West street, of which his brother August is proprietor, was arraigned before Magistrate Wahl in the Tombs Court to-day on a charge of stealing a pocketbook containing $1,753 from Walter Tinsley, nineteen years old, a barber, of Philadelphia.

Tinsley says he came here from Philadelphia a week ago Monday with $30. He went to the room at Jamaica, he says, and by well-placed bets increased the roll last Saturday night to $1,750. Monday morning he left his room, his coat hanging on the bed. He returned in a few minutes, he says, to find a man he believed to be the proprietor taking his pocketbook from his coat. When he protested, he says, and demanded his money back, he asserts the thief struck him in the face and ran away.

Go to District Attorney.
Tinsley went to the District Attorney's office and made a complaint to Assistant District Attorney Paul Krutzel. Mr. Krutzel sent for August Quick, the proprietor, but Tinsley could not identify him. William Quick, the cashier, was called, and Tinsley instantly declared he was the man who had taken his money. The warrant was then issued.

In the Tombs Court to-day Mr. Krutzel did not appear to consider the case a serious one. He told Magistrate Wahl the proprietor said Tinsley was in the practice of going to hotels and "shaking them down" by such complaints. The boy's grief over the alleged loss seemed genuine, however.

Alexander Rosenthal, who appeared for the boy, resented Mr. Krutzel's statement, and objected when the latter asked for a postponement.
Krotel Too Friendly, He Says.
"The Assistant District Attorney is apparently a friend of the defendant," he charged.

"Do you mean to impugn my motives?" demanded Krotel.
"I'm satisfied the District Attorney's office is more of a friend to the defendant than to the complainant," rejoined Rosenthal.
Magistrate Wahl suggested a conference, which was agreed to, and Quick was paroled in the custody of his lawyer, T. J. Nolan.

The Glen Island Hotel is the hotel in which Florence Burns was accused of murdering Walter Brooks.

HE DISCOVERED McLELLAN.

Theodore Myers Returns and Says
He Gave Mayor First Political Boost.

Ursadore M. Myers, who was Controller under Mayor Grant, Hewitt and Gilroy, arrived in this city to-day on the Cornelia, of the Cunard line. Before he stepped off the gang-plank he said many nice things about Mayor McEllan.

"I started George B. McEllan in his political career," said Mr. Myers. "When I gave him the trusteeship of the Brooklyn Bridge, I consider him an ideal candidate. He is no man's man and thoroughly upright and honest. I do not know Mr. Murphy, but feel sure that he does not control the Mayor."

SAY HE SCHOOLED MEN IN PERJURY.

W. J. Blair Charged with Training Witnesses for Metropolitan Road.

Accused of attempting to manufacture three company witnesses and of coaching them in a perjury, W. J. Blair, an investigator of the Metropolitan Street Railway, was to-day arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Wahl in the Centre Street Court by Detective Seene, of the court squad. The specific charge was the violation of section 115, of the Penal Code, which makes it a misdemeanor to attempt to induce another to commit perjury.

The warrant was granted on affidavits sworn by John Hodgkins, of No. 328 East Ninety-second street; Matthew Cowley, of No. 141 East Ninety-seventh street, and Joe Volk, who alleged they were coached for the witness stand although they never were called.

The arrest grew out of the damage case of Mrs. John A. Quigley, of No. 109 Park avenue, who recently was awarded $400 damages against the Metropolitan Company in a case heard before Justice Platt in White Plains.
